Money Assist

It's free, it's confidential, its time is now.

"I'm just embarrassed. I've blown so much money on the dogs and I can't tell my wife. I know I need help."

"I try not to let my stress show especially with the kids but I'm really worried we might lose the house. I have no idea what to do next."

"My whole retirement plan has been tipped on its head. My super is tanking, banks are paying no interest and I can't see myself being able to retire for years now."

"I had no idea how to approach my bank and everyone else I owe money to. Jill was unreal helping me get a plan. She even gave the script of what to say."

"I can't believe how much difference a 45 minute chat on the phone with a financial counsellor has made. I've got a plan and I slept pretty well last night for the first time in ages."

Right now, Money Assist is busier than usual for very understandable reasons. People across Australia have been impacted greatly by the pandemic, major job losses and the economic consequences that will play out for a long time to come.

It's a tough time for so many Australians. Why not call Money Assist for some practical support and guidance on the best way to tackle your financial worries that are keeping you awake at night.

It's free to all employees and is fully confidential. Best of all, it's a flexible, super-tailored experience designed to help you with exactly what is making life tough right now.

So don't waste any more time, pick up the phone and call us on: 1300 OUR EAP (1300 687 327).
